900,000 GERMANS DIE IN RUSSIA IN 4 MONTHS

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Anaylist

OUT OF northern Russia a new ally—winter, the giant of the steppes—is moving its mighty weight southward to the aid of the Red armies which are battling to close the great Dnieper-bend trap on Hitler's retreating forces.

This boon is developing as the Muscovites arrive at the expensive lower reaches of the Dnieper opposite Kherson. Winter soon will freeze the Dnieper and the awful fields of seemingly bottomless mud which the autumn rains have created. It will expedite the movement of troops and engines of war.

The fierce cold and snows, which smashed Napoleon with one stroke, already have had two goes at Hitler. This bids fair to be the third and last.

The mouth of the Dnieper-bend trap, which opens westward towards the fatherland and temporary safety (or does security lie that way?), is between the strategic rail center of Krivoi Rog on the north and the estuary of the river at the Black sea. That gate is about 90 miles wide.

This 90-mile stretch affords the only escape for the large German forces which remains inside the trap. Many troops already have been moved through the opening, although thousands have been killed or captured by the pursuing Reds, and vast quantities of Nazi war materiel have been abandoned. Estimates of the number of Hitlerites still within the trap are guesses, but undoubtedly the total runs to scores of thousands.

Disaster is setting the pace for the Germans, in what is one of the greatest crises of the war. Already they have suffered catastrophe. Today's news from Moscow claims 2,700,000 Nazi casulaties during the four months' offensive, and of these 900,000 are killed.

A complete breakdown and debacle of the German forces could grow out of the present position. However, the final returns aren't yet in. Despite the terrible losses they already have suffered, and still are bound to have, they may be able to fall back to fresh positions for another stand.

Here enters winter. The Hitlerites haven't been properly prepared, even with clothing, for winter heretofore and can't be now. The Russians are well set for cold and snows.

THE RED ARMIES are said to have fresh reserves, specially equipped and trained in winter warfare, ready to throw into the battle-line at the right moment. That won't be long delayed. Already snows are reported in the north and the frosts are tightening the mud.

By mid-December—say six weeks from now—even the Dnieper will be frozen in the Kiev region. Christmas will see ice at Kremenchug, and within the first few days of January—two months hence—the great river will be frozen clear down to Kherson.

With the freezing, the Red armies will be able to unleash fresh striking-power and speed. And six or eight weeks don't allow much time for the harrassed German armies to pull themselves out of the trap and retire to new positions.

Right now the Nazis are up to their necks in evacuating troops from the trap. This means they must hold the gateway open between Krivoi Rog and Nikolayev on the Bug river, not far from the mouth of the Dnieper. That's a bloody job, and may be largely love's labor lost.

Our guess is that while Herr Hitler will have the traditional white Christmas in Russia, the poor fellow isn't headed for a very merry yuletide.

ONE SLAIN IN PRISON BREAK

Two Others and Guard Are Wounded In Junction City Mutiny

JUNCTION CITY, O., Nov. 5.—One convict was dead, two nursed gunshot wounds and three others were in correctional cells today after an unsuccessful attempt to escape from the state prison camp near here.

Guard Nelson Palmer, 36, was cut and slugged as the sextet attacked him, he reported, with a butcher knife, then tied him with a rope before obtaining his keys to the main door.

The break, launched at "lockup" time about 5:30 p. m. yesterday, was frustrated when Tower Guard Waldo McDonald opened fire on the mutineers with a rifle after they threw a bottle of flaming gasoline at his tower and missed.

Edward Hykes, 51, of New Philadelphia, was shot in the head and killed. He was serving 3 to 50 years for rape with consent.

Two Are Wounded

Robert McCall, 54, of Butler county, serving 10 to 24 for robbery, was wounded in the leg, and Alva Sowards, 33, of Gallia county, a lifer sent up for attempted bank robbery, was struck in a hand by a bullet.

Others reported in the attempted break were Ray C. Brown, 38, of Hamilton county, serving 1 to 25 years for unarmed robbery; David Branham, 43, of Champaign county, 20 years to life for bank robbery, and Elmer Swain of Cuyahoga county, 1 to 7 years for house-breaking.

The six stayed in the recreation room after the lock-up whistle and attacked Guard Palmer with a 14-inch butcher knife and a club. Knocking him unconscious, they unlocked the door of the building with Palmer's keys and emerged into the prison yard, carrying the guard as a shield.

McDonald fired from the tower and wounded three of the convicts. Guards, responding to a general alarm, quickly subdued the others.

The prison camp is an honor branch of Ohio penitentiary and houses about 300 men who grow farm crops for the state's welfare institutions.

Army Takes Over Jap Center After Internees Stage Riot

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—The Army took over the Tulelake segregation center for disloyal Japanese today and moved swiftly to restore order at the troubled camp.

The Chronicle said 1,000 troops in battle dress arrived at the center in remote Siskiyo county near the Oregon border, accompanied by eight tanks, 20 armored cars and jeeps carrying machine guns, after a civilian guard was beaten up.

The newspaper said 20 persons were injured as soldiers with fixed bayonets rounded up 500 trouble-makers.

Col. Verne Austin, commandant of the troops, confirmed that the Army had taken over the camp, but declined to give further information. Ray Best, project director, refused telephone calls.

Floodlights every 80 to 100 feet illuminated the 700-acre camp which is enclosed by two barbed wire fences 40 feet apart. Inside this 40 foot band, which soldiers referred to as the "shooting strip," tanks and armored cars circled the area slowly in an unending parade.

The few Caucasian personnel who remained and those whom the Army asked to return after they had been evacuated, were ordered to stay in quarters for reasons of safety.

Injured Guard Critical

When the soldiers arrived, the Chronicle said, internees seized a number of automobiles and trucks belonging to camp administration officials and attempted to run down Army guards.

The Japanese, who gathered in an angry demonstration last Monday, were quickly subdued. No shots were fired.

The injured security guard was identified as Edward Brobeck, a War Relocation Authority employe. His condition was reported critical.

Earlier Robert Cozzen, field director for the WRA, revealed that a "Reverend Kai," a Japanese Buddhist priest from Hawaii, told his countrymen at a mass demonstration Monday that "you must give your all for Japan," whereupon several thousand doffed their hats and bowed their heads.

While the demonstration was in progress, Cozzens said, he and several others were held virtual prisoners inside the administration building.

Teacher Describes His Trip Overseas

Kiwanians yesterdav at their noon luncheon meeting heard Staff Sergt. Clyde Thomas, a former school teacher here, who has recently returned from action in North Africa, describe his experiences in the service.

Sergt. Thomas was in England for six months and later was with American forces in the invasion of Iran. He told of his trip overseas and of the trip home.

Lieut. Richard McConner, of Salem, who has just received his M. D. degree from Western Reserve university, and Pvt Jerry Trisler, home on furlough from Camp Shelby, Miss., also were guests at the meeting.

During the business session Dr. George Jones made a report of the recent Kiwanis district convention in Columbus at which he and President-elect A. P. Morris represented the Salem club.

Plans were discussed for the "Mile of Dimes" project, which will raise funds for use at the Shenango Valley camp hospital and for participation in the international club project, "Keep America American". Gerald W. McKee is chairman of the penny plan and Harold Smith, of the international program.

Dr. I. Philo of the Rodef Sholem Jewish synagogue in Youngstown will be guest speaker at the meeting next Thursday. N. I. Walken is chairman.

Navy Pay Delayed

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5—Families of Navy enlisted personnel were assured today they would receive increased dependency payments on time, despite additional bookkeeping made necessary by recent amendments to the servicemen's dependents allowance act.

Delinquency Problems Worse In County, Judge Declares

The problem confronting officials with regard to increasing juvenile delinquency was discussed by Juvenile Judge H. W. Hammond before a group of officials representing the cities and villages of Columbiana county at a meeting in the Lisbon courthouse Thursday afternoon.

The problem is getting admittedly worse throughout the country due to wartime conditions which finds both parents in many homes employed and conditions in the home in the largest percentage of cases responsible for delinquency of the children.

Judge Hammond urged a stricter check of amusement places and enforcement of a curfew law in order that children under 18 years of age be kept off the streets and in their homes a night. To check juvenile delinquency police departments were asked by Judge Hammond to take the names of all youths under 18 years of age running the streets at night, together with the names of their parents and to certify the parents names to the juvenile court. Parents then would be ordered to appear in court to answer to a delinquency charge, with possible serious consequences.

"We cannot help but have juvenile delinquency when there is such wholesale adult delinquency as exists today, and after studying the matter I believe the above method the best means of combating the problem," said Judge Hammond.

The matter of delinquency due to cigaret smoking by minors was also discussed by Judge Hammond, who blamed cigaret vending machines in part and the attitude in the home for the increase in juvenile smoking. The penny machines which vend single cigarets and package machines to which the children have access drew the fire of the jurist, as well as merchants who permit them to obtain the smokes from the machines.

"Children who get into more serious difficulties in the juvenile court, invariably are children who smoke," said the judge. "Every child who smokes is a delinquent and any person who permits them to smoke or sells them cigarets is guilty of delinquency under the law."

NAZIS ROUTED BY ALLIES IN ROME ADVANCE

Venafro Fall Imminent As Massico-Trigno Defense Line Collapses

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 5—Moving deeper into central Italy over the collapsed Massico-Trigno river defense line, Allied Fifth and Eighth armies advanced in all sectors, Allied headquarters said today.

The fall of Venafro, one of the two inland highway centers which held the line together, was believed imminent.

(The BBC correspondent in Algiers said American troops "are fighting in the outskirts of Venafro.")

The Fifth army followed up the Eighth army's capture of Isernia the other highway hub in he demolished line, by smashing through German positions to reach the vicinity of the Garigliano river, 80 miles south of Rome. Its low banks along the Tyrrhenian had been flooded by the Germans to delay the pursuit.

Rout Enemy at San Salvo

On the Allied right flank, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army routed enemy resistance in the San Salvo area after several days of fierce battling and captured that town and railway station with the assistance of the British destroyers Queensborough and Raider, which shelled the Germans out of their holes.

In the Montemitro area, some 12 miles inland from the Adriatic, Montgomery's British and Canadians made further crossings of the Trigno river and prepared to exploit the advantageous position gained when the fall of Isernia cut the Germans off from the westward road connections with their right wing.

Making further inroads in the center, American units crossed the upper Volturno river where it bends northeastward in front of Venafro, capturing all high ground dominating the upper valley, while other forces to the east seized San Agapito, three miles south of Isernia, and Carpinone, six miles east of Isernia.

In an earial offensive the new 15th United States air force joined with its older brother, the 12th, and with the RAF in smashing German communications.

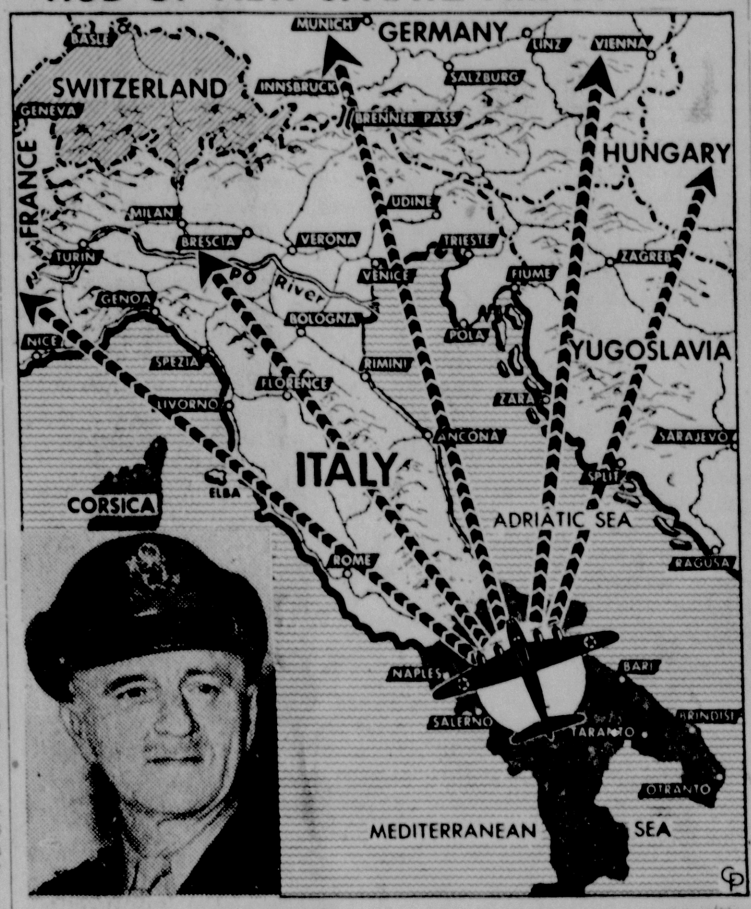
Fortresses bombed the west coast railway at numerous places between Leghorn and Civitavecchia, north of Rome, interrupting service on that important supply artery. Bomb carrying P-38 Lightnings made simultaneous attacks on the railway viaduct at Terni, north of Rome, scoring direct hits on that key junction.

Late Bulletins

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—President Roosevelt announced today that the United States, Great Britain, and China, had reached a complete agreement for new military operations in the Chinese theater and that it would mean bad news for the Japanese.

LONDON, Nov. 5—American Flying Fortresses and Liberators, escorted by Thunderbolts and Lightnings, blasted targets in western Germany today while medium Marauder bombers attacked targets in northern France, U. S. Air Force headquarters announced.

HUB OF NEW SPAATZ AIR DRIVE



A MAJOR AIR OFFENSIVE against many Nazi targets, heretofore almost invulnerable due to distance, may be expected following creation of a new U. S. Fifteenth Air Force with Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz in command of the Mediterranean area. In combining the Twelfth and Fifteenth Air Forces, bombing drives will cover a wide range of occupied and satellite areas as well as south Germany and Austria. Map shows captured air base area in Italy which becomes a new hub of activity and arrows indicate the many possible zones of attack. North African bases will also be used. Inset at left shows Gen. Spaatz. Shaded area indicates territory held by the Allies. (International)

URGES BRITISH LEND-LEASE PAY

Truman Committee Says Some Repayment Due From England

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—As part of an overall preparation for post-war prosperity, the senate Truman committee recommended today that consideration be given to seeking some repayment from the British for the Lend-Lease shipments.

If England can not pay in dollars for the petroleum she needs, the committee recommended that some thought be given to U. S. acquistion of British-held reserves in Asia, South America and the Dutch East Indies.

In a further comment on the need for reducing the ultimate cost of the Lend-Lease program to American taxpayers, the committee asserted that the United States had had to supply rubber and rubber products to England.

England not only did not build an adequate stockpile, the committee asserted, but through its English and Dutch-controlled international rubber regulations committee "hindered" RFC Chairman Jesse Jones in his efforts to obtain a stockpile for this country.

"Consideration should be given now as to the terms and conditions under which any such rubber monopoly should be continued after the war," said the report. "We should insure that we will never again be the victims of a plan . . by which we were forced in the twenties to pay exorbitant prices for rubber at the same time we were being called Shylocks in the English press for requesting repayment of war loans which we had made to England.

"Attention should also be given to the possibility of acquiring rights in the deposits of English-owned resources of nickel, copper, tin and iron in countries outside England, and the right to receive manganese from Russia after the war in return for Lend-Lease articles furnished it now."

Tom Harmon Is Missing In Far East Area

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 5.—Army Pilot Tom Harmon, 24, Michigan's All-American football player who cheated death in the skies once this year, is reported missing in action over China.

The second lieutenant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Harmon, were notified last night by the War department that their son, a fighter pilot, was unreported since Oct. 30.

Harmon, sole survivor of a bomber crash in the Dutch Guiana jungles last April, was attached to the 23rd group of the 449th Fighter squadron stationed in the Far East.

No hint as to whether Japanese guns or an accident cut down one of Michigan's greatest gridiron stars was contained in the telegram received by Harmon's parents. It said simply that Harmon "has been reported missing in action since Oct. 30. If further details or other information are received, you will be promptly notified."

Harmon was transfererd to China last summer from North Africa where he was stationed after the crash of his bombed, "Old 98," named after his college football number, in the South American jungle.

Wrote Letter To Crisler

Last to hear from Harmon was his football coach, H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, who said the All-America halfback of 1939 and 1940 had written in a letter dated Oct. 14 that the Japanese pilots were inferior to the Nazi fliers.

"Tommy wrote that he was in one of two American planes jumped by 17 Zeroes and that they got two while the rest fled," Crisler said.

Both Crisler and Harmon's father expressed belief that Harmon flew insupport of sharp Chinese action against the Japs in the vicinity of Hanor reported on Oct. 29.

EAST DNIEPER RIVER SECTOR HELD BY REDS

Moscow Says 98,000 Enemy Soldier Are Captured; 1,702,000 Wounded

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Nov. 5.—The Russians held virtually every foot of land east of the Dnieper today from its mouth below Kherson and along its 650-mile course through the heart of the Ukraine north to Gomel as the prize of their summer campaign, which they said bled the Germans of 2,700,000 casualties.

Marshal Stalin's resume of four violent months of combat listed 900,000 Germans killed, 98,000 captured and 1,702,000 wounded, thus hoisting German casualties claimed by Russia to an astronomical 11,000,000, of which the Russians said 5,000,000 lay dead.

Swift sweeps over the Black sea sands of the southern Ukraine brought the Cossacks to the river banks opposite Kherson, 65 miles northwest of the sealed off Crimea.

Dominate East Side

Official Maps published today showed the Russians in possession of all the east side of the Dnieper from Gomel to Zaporozhe in the bend. South of Zaporozhe, the only German holdings east of the Dnieper are limited to the Crimea, a thin strip 52 miles long opposite Nikopol, and a minute bit of land in the Dnieper delta due south of Kherson.

(Moscow said nothing of the Crimea, but the Berlin radio said "German troops were engaged in heavy fighting on beachheads south and east of Kursk and on the northern approaches to the Crimea.")

The Triumphant announcement carrying these staggering figures of German losses on the Russian front came just after the regular daily communique told of further gains by the Soviet Ukrainian armies under Gen. Feodor Tolbukhin.

Red army columns were reported in Aleshki, on the eastern bank of the lower Dnieper river opposite the Black sea port of Kherson, at the river's mouth. The Russians also announced their troops had captured the west bank highway town of Dimer, 20 miles north of Kiev, and had swept across White Russia to take Novokhovansk, 54 miles from the Latvian border in a move to outflank Vitebsk.

Moscow again failed to mention developments on the by-passed Crimean peninsula, but Berlin broadcasts said fresh Soviet shock troops from the Caucasus had landed south of Kerch to reinforce beachheads established three days ago.

NO SIGNIFICANCE, THEY SAY

Claims of significance for the election returns, which were disappointing to Democrats in various places, such as New York, naturally are going to be disputed by Democrats. They will deny stoutly, for example, Harrison E. Spangler's declaration that the outcome was a rebuff to the Roosevelt administration and slams the door on a fourth term. As chairman of the Republican national committee, Mr. Spangler is subject to suspicion of prejudice.

But the strange thing is that no matter how the thing is supposed to look after the votes are cast, there is no doubt left in the minds of voters who followed campaigns that the candidates, themselves, tried to make it look like a test of national sentiment. In New York, for example, Lieut. Gen. Haskell, the retired soldier who ran for the lieutenant governorship with the backing of the American Labor party, Tammany Hall and the Democrats, held on to President Roosevelt's coat-tail with both hands, even though the President wasn't running. He made it plain in his speeches, and his backers made it plain, that Haskell was the white-haired boy, the New Deal candidate and the white hope in the fight to embarrass Republican Gov. Dewey.

The post-election claim that his defeat doesn't mean a thing may fool a lot of people, but it certainly must sound strange to New Yorkers who listened to Gen. Haskell's campaign speeches.

WHO SPEAKS FOR COAL MINERS?

President Roosevelt's order to coal miners to go back to work after the government had "seized" the mines again had even less effect than the preceding order from John L. Lewis, president of United Mine Workers. While Mr. Lewis was disobeyed merely on a matter of sporadic striking over a legitimate disagreement, the President was disobeyed on a direct order as chief executive of the United States, commander in chief of its armed forces and the three-time recipient of organized labor's support in national elections. This is a revealing incident.

It reveals chiefly that organized coal miners are not subject, in the last analysis, to any control which does not jibe with their own wishes, a fairly elemental discovery but one which hadn't been discovered as recently as 1940 when Mr. Lewis tried to lead his union en masse into the Willkie camp. Evidently, Mr. Roosevelt hadn't discovered it as recently as this week, or he would not have sacrificed the prestige of the chief executive of the United States to an order which was not going to be respected because it did not fulfill the miners' requirements for returning to work — a contract.

Many Americans will wonder what would have happened if mine operators had resisted seizure of their property when so ordered by the President. Rather, they will not wonder about that, because the answer is obvious, but they will wonder why it might not be feasible to seize the property of United Mine Workers for a change, to remind that organization it has obligations to its government, too.

TOO LATE FOR RESOLUTIONS

The suggestion that the senate, which didn't adopt the Connally resolution in time to reassure the Moscow conference might adopt the results of the conference, instead, seems more than a little out of touch with the known facts of the situation.

It amounts to saying that as long as the senate is too late to give advice to the chief executive on foreign policy, the omission could be offset by being too early with its consent, which is not, so far as anyone knows, even being solicited.

For the sake of the senate's own prestige, it had better go ahead with the Connally resolution for the record—specifically, The Congressional Record—which was the idea in the first place.

PANTS CUFFS AND PATCH POCKETS

The reason for restoring pants cuffs, like the reason for taking them away, remains obscure. But WPB makes no mystery about the restoration of the patch pocket, another sacrifice to the doctrine that the government always know what it is doing.

Patch pockets are being restored on many types of coats because of a shortage of rayon and cotton linings for concealed pockets. Obviously, the shortage was not foreseen when the government issued its original order, which had the effect of creating an unnaturally high demand for these linings.

Consumers of clothing, which includes all of us, even the artists who earn their bread and butter by knowing how to disrobe gracefully, have shown admirable patience in dealing with this kind of organized confusion. But the experience has left its mark.

Once upon a time, theorists used to enlighten the public with rosy accounts of a managed economy. As theorists, they managed to pick up a considerable following for themselves. But as practitioners, they have involuntarily given themselves a black eye by demonstrating as deplorable a lack of omniscience as the unorganized entrepreneurs they wanted to replace—harassed individuals who guessed wrong perhaps as often as they guessed right, but at least were barred from inflicting their wrong guesses on a nationwide scale.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, November 6

WHILE THERE are signs of the breaking away from old stagnations and crystallizations, with long-continued obstacles and impediments, yet the most determined concentrated and astute course of action may encounter sudden difficulties and upheavals, with developments of surprising factors or strange opposition. This may be from contacts with erratic persons, inspired by impulse or emotional iresponsibility. Sudden changes, unwise and dangerous travel are possible. Also there may be a proclivity to be extravagant or improvement with funds and credit.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of determined and brave attack upon static conditions, with obstruction and frustration of long standing. The disposition may be toward being unwise and improvident with needful funds. Also there may be a sudden menace of upheaval, forced journey or change, possibly incited by connection with an erratic or impetuous person, probably a woman, or a stranger. With perseverance, thrift and intelligent labor there may be some definite and enduring gain. But be wise in judgments and in all contacts.

A child born on this day should be sturdy, industrious and sound, yet it may suffer from strange associates or its own extravagance. However, there is a probability of inheritance or accumulated possessions.

SUPPLIES REACH AIR FORCES

DAYTON, Nov. 4.—Supplies are reaching the U. S Army Air Forces in all parts of the world in greater volume and less time than ever before, top ranking officers of the AAF from eight theaters of war reported Wednesday at the conclusion of a four-day conference at Air Service command headquarters.

"In September, not one heavy bomber in the Guadalcanal area was out of commission for lack of parts," reported Col. G. McCoy, Jr., who flew here from New Caledonia for the meeting.

Col. A. W. Martinstein, back from England, said "things are so much better than they were six months ago that we have no gripes."

Brig. Gen. Harold A. Barton reported instant availability of more than adequate supplies of all nature soon after initial landings at Casablanca, and Lt. Col. D. M. Corson cited one instance where radio equapment ordered by radio-telephone was shipped from Dayton and in use over Attu three days later.

Maj. Gen. Walter H. Frank, ASC commander, told a press conference of "cnstant efforts between the various AAF commands to achieve the utmost coordination of effort."

Maj. Gen. Walter H. Frank, commanding general of the ASC, described his command as "the world's largest mail-order house," which at times expedites shipments of airplane parts half way around the earth within a week.

Advance service echelons with as much as 30 days supplies on hand have gone ahead of tactical units in Italy, General Barton told a press conference, first of its kind ever held by officers of the ASC. Regular ASC bases carry a 90-day level of parts and supplies.

However, he added, "we expect a great deal of help from Italy itself, in the matter of guards, and food, and even some of its many fine (repair and service) shops."

Contagious Diseases Are Serious

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"I SHOULD like to know how children get contagious diseases like measles all the time and adults never do."

I wonder why I never got asked that question before, or why I was not smart enough to think of answering it on my own responsibility. Because it is one of the great facts of life.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Immunity to most contagious diseases is dissolved in a fluid mixture. It is in the mother's blood and while she is carrying her baby, it seeps into the baby's blood. Therefore, a baby up to about a year old is just as much protected as an adult. But the immunity wears out. And then comes the period of measles, mumps, whooping cough and scarlet fever. After the immunity acquired from the mother is gone, it takes very little exposure to cause contagion.

Measles Most Contagious Disease

Measles is the most contagious disease on earth. Apparently just a wind blowing from an infected person to a non-infected person is enough. Scarlet fever is the least contagious of all the childhood diseases. If you want to prove this, take a class of children about 10 and ask every one who has had measles to raise the hand. Practically every one will go up. Then ask for scarlet fever cases. Only about five out of 20 will go up.

I am not in favor of protecting children from measles. At about the age of four, if he hasn't had it yet, I would take a youngster for an afternoon to play with a full-blown case. But I would go out of my way to protect him. We saw too many serious cases and deaths in the Army. A lot of the boys had been raised on farms, had never associated closely with others, and they came down by the droves with measles. And they had all the complications that kids at home seldom have—ear infection, pneumonia and everything you can think of. Our death rate was higher than from any other disease, counting the pneumonia secondary to measles, as measles.

Compared to measles, scarlet fever is hardly contagious at all. And besides it has been growing less malignant in the past 20 years. Fifty years ago scarlet fever charts were a horror to look at, but now it is little more than a bad case of hives. There are exceptions, of course, and I would always treat it with respect, but by and large, that statement holds.

Serious Diseases

Never treat mumps and whooping cough with contempt. They are serious diseases and should so be regarded. Mumps may make a boy sterile for life and whooping cough may go into the worst form of pneumonia.

One thing about all these diseases—if you have them in childhood, you are all over them. They never return. There is only one exception—whooping cough. If little Elmer has a bad cough and grandpa has a bad cough, too, the chances are grandpa has whooping cough.

We have no artificial immunity to use in the form of injections for measles and mumps. And our immunity serum to scarlet fever and whooping cough is not sufficiently good that I would care to recommend it very strongly.

So I stick to my idea of getting them all naturally when you are young and your juices are strong.

But mothers should not treat them lightly. They are all serious and require the most careful nursing. Nothing is "just" a case of measles.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

The Crimson Thread

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

After we'd found a table at Sibboney's and Dennis ordered coffee, toast and marmalade, he said: "How about making this your lunch? Eggs Benedict sound good? You had a mighty early start this morning."

"Marmalade yes. Eggs no. But how do you know about my early start?"

"I phoned your house at nine—after I'd seen the papers. Mrs. Powers said Wing had taken you to the 8:26. The broadcast is at noon. It wasn't hard to track you down."

"Spying?" I asked.

"Yep. Want to make something of it?"

"I don't have to."

"Oh yes you do. I'm your self-constituted watchdog."

"I don't need one."

"What makes you so sure?"

"Have you a Cassandra complex too, Dennis?"

"Don't try to be airy. What I mean, and you know well it's what I mean, is that if the killer strikes twice and against children this time, he's gone berserk. You people down there ought to get together, pool your knowledge, face your suspicions, and fight against your murderer—instead of for him."

"Provided it's a him," I said.

"Accepting your grammar, why do you suggest it's a her?"

Our coffee came then.

"I'm suggesting it's a 'them'," I said. "I'm not convinced there's only one murderer—"

"Why not?"

"Because Sergeant O'Toole says killers keep to their method. Leave their signature. A gunman shoots, a poisoner poisons. The first two murders at Havenhurst were done in the same way—"

"Two murders before the nursemaid was poisoned?"

Then I told Riorden about the red setter.

"I see," he said slowly. "Well, you have at least one dangerous homicidal brute stalking through Havenhurst. First a handsome dog dies. Then a useless bounder. Next this poor little nursemaid."

Dennis didn't say you couldn't call killing a dog murder. I liked him for that.

"Look here, Hilda," he said, "I'd like to hire a detective. The best the city can produce. There are a lot of things you know and won't tell. Everybody in your clan's doing a little covering up. And your home-town police are likely to skip still more because it looks as if the killer may be one of the local big shots."

"You're practically calling us accessories after the fact."

"There you go! Side-stepping again. Why don't you say: 'Keep out of this case, can't you'?"

"I couldn't. Dickey and Dotty make it urgent," I said.

"What makes it urgent is that you've either go two killers with two methods of operating, or there's one who's heard Sergeant O'Toole speak his piece and is smart enough to take his cue from it and vary his performance. Also there's your boy Wing. He said he'd been poisoned the night of your dinner. Maybe it's true. Maybe the killer wanted Wing out of his way. Or Wing might have faked that sickness so he could do a bit of poisoning on his own later on without being suspected."

"Wing worked for Nancy Everard before he came to us. He knew Dicky and Dotty. He wouldn't—"

"Let's get a good detective on the job. Let's get an investigator who isn't quite so sure of what people at Havenhurst-on-Sound would or wouldn't do."

"He'd only muddle things up. Sergeant O'Toole, Romey Hodges, and the chief of police would resent a private investigator. They'd shut him out. They're capable of handling this. Especially Romey Hodges. He's a detective and I think he's a good one."

"So you won't let me help you. Gosh, Hilda Glenn, I believe you'd actually sacrifice a couple more lives to that cursed caste feeling of your—Havenhurst or die!"

"Noblesse oblige," I said and added, unforgivably, "if you know what that means."

"I do, even if I had to put myself through Yale to find out that it's an outworn motto. There's nothing to this nonsense that thinks it's noble to stand by the neighboring nabobs whether they're right or wrong. I'm a plain Riorden from Avenue A, I'm for the common people and common decency."

"But it's not decent for a host to bawl his guest out like this in public," I commented gently.

"Now you're off on a new tack. Look here, Hilda, are you afraid I'll dig out the truth about what's behind these murders at Havenhurst? Is that why you're putting me off? Are you all set to protect the home folks, let the corpses fall where they may? Perhaps you'd even like it better if I stayed away this week-end."

Dennis was suddenly angry. His eyes were dark and stormy, his voice crackled.

"Don't stay away on my account." I was angry too now.

He glowered at me. "I'm coming down on your account whether you like it or not."

"But I do like it," I said. I hadn't been very angry after all. "I'd like another driving lesson. I think I'd even like to tell you about my own life on Avenue A. And about how Commodore Knowlton sent my parents to their death when he might have saved them . . . I think he killed that red setter because it haunted him — because it reminded him of his grandson's Red Rufus. He sent Hank to his death too."

"What do you mean by that—'sent Hank to his death,' 'sent my parents to their death.?"

"I know. It sounds melodramatic. But it's so. He's a merciless old man. He gets rid of people when they bother him. If he'd kill a dog—well, anyhow, I've an idea I'm going to solve this case—"

Dennis stared at me. "Why, Hilda!"

"I know I shouldn't have said all that. You think I'm raving."

"Listen, honey, never mind what I think. Go on, talk. It's good for you."

"I've talked too much," I said. I felt as if I'd been delirious and was better now. Dizzy but sane. "I've got to go. I'm the girl who writes Love's Wages in case you've forgotten. I've got to run along now if I want to get to the broadcast."

"All right. Run along to the broadcast now. And be at my offce at five. We may not get away till midnight but you're not going to Havenhurst alone, young woman. And if you won't have a detective, you're going to have a dog. If you're bound to catch that murderer yourself, you may need a dog to help you."

That's how I came to own a blue merle collie and also how Dennis Riorden and I came to be friends. I might as well tell you now that it's also why Aunt Carrie is alive today.

After the broadcast Ada Jackson pounced on me. "For the love of Mike, snap out of it, Hilda! You look like the chief mourner—or the next victim. Pete Everard got what he'd been asking for. I hope you're not carrying the torch for him."

"What's eating Hilda is that she's so darn scared for fear one of her fellow socialites is the killer," Harve too, and with angry conviction, said. Dennis Riorden had said that. Now Harve was making a shot at random. But Ada saw me wince.

Pam never can resist a tilt with Ada. So she came to my rescue. "You'd be edgy yourself if you lived at Havenhurst. That attempt to poison the Everard children makes my blood run cold. It seems so—absolutely fantastic. Unless perhaps the murderer is afraid those babies came too near the truth to live. They must have seen something. Or perhaps their nursemaid did. There's no other explanation of the second murder at Havenhurst-on-Sound. I'm sure there isn't."

"Bravo!" Ada gibed. "Very dramatic. But if I were writing the script, those would not be your lines, dear Pamela."

Pam shrugged her shoulders. "You run true to form, don't you, Ada? You can't resist a chance to wisecrack even in the face of death."

"Listen to this and it's no wisecrack," Ada said. "Havenhurst got along all right till you moved there. Now it's had two murders in three days. Maybe there's an epidemic started. I'd move to a healthier climate if I were you."

"Why are you so interested in me all of a sudden?" Pam asked ungraciously.

"In you? I'm interested in Dodi Marshal and the actress who plays her. You're a good romantic lead, Pamela, even if you're not up on the mother part."

"That's not funny," Crick said. "Come on, Monday's scripts are waiting. But before we go to work, here's an idea, Hilda. Why don't you come in and take my apartment for a week or two? Bring Peggy with you."

"I couldn't. I've got to help lay the Havenhurst ghost."

"Listen, Hilda," Ada urged: "If you think you're going to be next and there's no use fighting fate, please get way ahead on scripts. Harve and I can't afford to get married if the show closes suddenly."

"Shut up, will you?" Harve interjected. "I think it'd be smart for both the girls to come to town. You come in with me, Crick. Pam can bunk with Ada—"

"Don't worry, Ada," Pam said crisply. "I'm not deserting Havenhurst. And I'm not worried about Henny because she has the Commodore by sea and Miss Babcock by land. She simply adores them both. I'm a much better mother than Ada thinks. I wouldn't separate my child from her buddies for anything in the world."

"Cut!" That was Crick. He had to get his cast away from Havenhurst and back to Love's Wages if he didn't want the sponsors to pay for two hours of rehearsal time instead of one.

But I wondered if I were actually turning into a policeman. For I found I was definitely suspicious of Pam. She was new. Why all this loyalty?

QUIZ WORKERS IN YOUNGSTOWN VOTE

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 5.—Workers in nine precincts will be called before the board of elections tomorrow and questioned about apparent errors before the board finishes its official count to determine whether Arthur H. Williams, Republican, or Ralph W. O'Neill, Democrat, is mayor-elect of Youngstown.

The board checked 216 precinct books last night and found slight errors which gave Williams two more votes and O'Neill one. O'Neill now leads by six votes with 21,716 to 21,710 for Williams.

Main errors in precincts where workers will be questioned indicate mayoral candidates received more votes than the total vote cast in those districts.

If the official count is close, political observers believe court action may be field and the mayoral race may not be settled for several weeks.

Petty Thefts From Homes, Cars Probed By Police Officers

Police are investigating a series of petty thefts in the city in the past few days. Chief Ralph Stoffer said he believes the thefts are the work of youths, several of whom have been questioned in connection with previous misdemeanors. They appear to work one district one night, another, the next.

Mrs. John Lewis, 433 E. Fourth st., reported that her purse and one belonging to Mrs. Carl Abe, 611 N. Union ave., were taken from a bedroom at the Lewis home Tuesday evening. The purses were on a bed a few feet from an open window. Mrs. Lewis' pocketbook contained house keys and $2. The other purse contained about $4 and lodge membership cards.

Automobiles Looted

Drivers licenses, an "A" gas coupon book, trailer licenses and tire inspection slip were taken by thieves who ransacked a machine owned by John Sebo, 775 W. Wilson st., while it was parked at Salem City hospital Tuesday night.

William Juergens, 157 W. Seventh st., told police that a flashlight and tire inspection certificate were taken when his car was ransacked at a parking lot on Penn ave.

Forcing open two doors, thieves broke into the office of Alfred Fink, secretary of the local CIO union, on S. Lundy ave. Althugh the office was ransacked nothing was taken.

The theft of an "A" gas ration book and two "R" tickets, and several gallons of 'gas' were reported by Warren Hilliard, R. D. 2, Salem, who told police that the gasoline was taken when the car was parked on S. Ellsworth ave. near the Bliss Co. plant Wednesday night.

Ration books 3 and 4 were taken from a car owned by William Smith, 269 Jennings ave., Monday night while it stood in the driveway at his home.

The thefts, police believe, may be the work of the same group or individuals who last weekend stole several purses and men's coats from a home on Ohio ave., and snatched Mrs. Melvin Heston's purse from her arm as she entered her home on Ohio ave.

State Republican Meeting Postponed

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5.—Gov. John W. Bricker insisted to newsmen today he had no idea who suggested postponement of a meeting of the Republican central and executive committees this week to endorse the governor for president.

He was asked directly at his press conference if he himself made the suggestion.

Bricker said he had not.

He was asked if he knew who might have made the suggestion.

He said he did not.

The governor's office reported Wednesday the meeting, scheduled for yesterday, had been delayed two weeks because various county chairmen could not attend since it followed by only two days the November election.

Some quarters said, however, that Bricker preferred getting an endorsement for president after announcing he would run for a fourth term as governor, and he is not yet ready to make such an announcement.

Bricker said he received an endorsement of the Lucas county Republican committee for another term as governor, and that he would reply to it shortly. He said he knew of no other such endorsements save one given him by the Huron county committee last summer.

Says Regional WLB Not Dumping Ground For Minor Disputes

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5 — The regional War Labor board "does not intend to be a dumping ground for minor grievances" between management and labor, Chairman Lewis M. Gill asserted today.

"It seems clear beyond any doubt that there is a growing habit on the part of labor and industry to neglect serious collective bargaining, brush past the conciliation service and dump their problems into the lap of the War Labor board," Gill asserted. He expressed belief the board's machinery would break down "if it is clogged with a flood of minor issues."

Gill's remarks were contained in a written opinion on the board's decision ordering the Electric Vacuum Cleaning Co., of Cleveland and the AFL Federal Labor union to arbitrate a dispute involving a four-month transfer of four employes from their regular job to lesser-paying jobs.

"It seems to us ridiculous to put in motion all the board's machinery to dispose of this grievance," commented Gill. "We think the company and the union should be ashamed to bring a half-baked matter of this sort to the board.

"We hope that our order in this case will serve notice that the board does not intend to be used as a dumping ground for minor grievances of parties who for one reason or another cannot or will not settle their routine troubles by themselves."

Rout of Jap Naval Force In Pacific By U. S. Navy Told

By VERN HAUGLAND

SOUTH PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 5.—In a blinding flash of star shells and parachute flares, American cruisers and destroyers drove off a Japanese force of at least 12 warships at the entrance to Empress Augusta bay on Bougainville island early Tuesday morning and, by the admission of Radio Tokyo, sank at least one cruiser and two destroyers.

The Japanese admission of losses was certainly conservative, in the estimation of American Navy men who participated in the battle.

(This was the first detailed report on the battle, and the first indications of enemy losses. General Douglas MacArthur's communique yesterday told of the routing of the Japanese force and said the American force suffered some damage in later attack by Japanese bombers. His communique made no mention of any damage inflicted on either force in the naval engagement itself.)

All of Admiral William F. Halsey's warships returned to their bases after driving the surviving Japanese ships back toward Rabaul. A few of Halsey's ships suffered slight damage in the battle fought at the maximum range of their guns.)

Tells of Attack

The commander of the task force told his story to correspondents at an advanced base while his crews were busily reloading his flagship with ammunition and fuel.

"It was a helluva black night and raining heavily when we first contacted the enemy at 227 (2:27 a. m.) Tuesday about 30 miles off Torokina point which is the entrance to the harbor where our Marines landed Monday.

"Previous reconnaissance showed 12 enemy ships approaching from the northwest.

"We opened fire on the enemy first about 240. They returned the fier almost immediately. They sent up planes which dropped flares off to the side to silhouette us. They had splendid illumination from their bright white flares. They lighted up the whole scene as soon as they dropped through the overcast.

"You understand that in these night actions everything is vague as can be, and from cruisers fighting at long range it is impossible to tell exactly what's going on. We have to reconstruct it in conference later and we have not yet had time to do this.

"We exchanged fire without a break for an hour and ten minutes until the enemy started to withdraw. This action moved slowly about ten miles westward into the Solomons sea.

"Then we pursued the enemy ships an hour longer until after 500 (5 a. m.) while they were retreating about 20 more miles into the Solomon sea toward St. George channel between New Britain and New Ireland."

ostello, Saddened By Death of Son, 1, Keeps Radio Date

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5 — Come- an Lou Costello's return to radio fter nearly eight months' absence duced by illness was no festive casion for the chunky little man ith the high-pitched voice.

"Butch"—Lou Costello, Jr.—was ead.

The actor's infant son drowned the swimming pool at the Costello estate in nearby Van Nuys a few hours before the broadcast.

But Costello, following the troupers tradition that the audience must not know what twists in his heart while the show goes on, insisted upon making the scheduled appearance last night despite the tragedy.

Lou quipped and squealed as usual with partner, Bud Abbott. He even carried off a scripted gag about life insurance. Comedian Mickey Rooney stood by, lest Costello falter, but the veteran of vaudeville, stage and films took his lines unflinchingly and met every cue.

There were tears in his eyes when, after the half-hour broadcast, he was led to his car by his physician, Dr. Victor Kovener, who had advised him to forego the ordeal of making the radio appearance.

Costello was rehearsing at NBC yesterday when informed that his son, who would have been a year old Saturday, had crept from a playpen and fallen into the pool.

Costello only recently recovered from a long illness with rheumatic fever. He and his wife, Ann, have two daughters, Carol Lou, 5, and Patricia Ann.

At the conclusion of the broadcast Abbott told the radio audience of the tragedy and commended Costello's fortitude in refusing to be replaced on the show.

Yank's Chivalry Startles London, Starts Hot Debate

By JIM KING
AP Features

LONDON—An American soldier riding in a crowded London bus offered his seat to a middle-aged woman and thereby started a red-hot controversy.

The woman wrote a letter to the editor of The London Times, whose columns are usually used by diplomats and educators to debate in print haughty questions of state and history.

"Were it not for the unfailing courtesy of all ranks of the United States service in offering us seats," wrote the woman—a Miss Morgan—"our journeys often would be more arduous than they are.

". . . We have become accustomed in these latter years not to expect from men, other than the older generation, much courtesy while traveling, and there fore it comes as an added surprise and pleasure when it is shown us by a younger generation, and then by that of our great ally."

Other letters followed hoorahing Miss Morgan.

Then came the rebuttal and the controversy spread to the touchy issue of women's rights.

The women, shouted C. A. Branston of Cambridge, were raising "the usual feminine claim both to have their cake and eat it.

"Some decades ago women importuned the community with their demands for equality," said Mr. Branston. "Now that they have it they want more."

The issue of chivalry arose.

Even the women chose up sides.

"Women must choose between chivalry and equality and NOT expect both," wrote Janet Green of Bristol.

This battle of words on "Wartime Manners" has reached only the first round and is still going strong.

And all because an American soldier riding in a crowded London bus offered his seat to a middle-aged woman.

DISTRICT SCHOOL TEAMS IN ACTION

Attention Is Focused On Canton-Alliance Game: Leetonia at Fitch

Two district grid encounters stack up this week as headliners as all but two of this section's elevens take the field Friday and Saturday. The Salem-East Liverpool and Alliance-Canton McKinley battles are capturing most of the local interest and a large Salem delegation is expected to swell the stands at Patterson field tonight.

The Alliance Aviators play host to a strong Canton McKinley eleven which is picked to take the Aviators without too much trouble. Alliance, however, has a reputation of playing its best game against the Bulldogs and may pull a surprise out of the hat.

At East Palestine another set of Bulldogs will engage a potent Louisville squad in a free-for-all that should come out in favor of the visitors. Palestine, though greatly improved over early season performances, isn't rated very highly against the fast Louisvillers. The visiting team is in second place in the Tri-County league and put up a good battle against undefeated Boardman, Palestine lost to "Rib" Allen's aggregation 38 to 0

Sebring has hopes, and well founded ones, of gaining their first win of the year tonight when the Canfield Riders come to town. The Trojans, have been beaten six times this season and tied one with Lisbon. The Canfield representatives are a good deal lighter than the Trojans and haven't been too powerful against earlier opposition

Leetonia Meets Fitch

Saturday's games will see the Leetonia squad in a hard game with Austintown Fitch. When the Leetonians take this road trip they may not have such an easy time of it, as the Fitch battle is always a hard fought one. However, Leetonia gets the rating in most quarters and will probably emerge victorious once again.

Lisbon, in the same fix as Sebring, will be working for their first win Saturday afternoon and will have to garner it from the Chester, W. Va., squad. Chester will close its season against the Blue Devils and will be trying to maintain its record of being unbeaten, untied, and unscored-on all season. The Lisbon team has little chance of taking the West Virginians but may ruin the untouched goal the visitors are protecting.

The other squads who have battled with the Quakers are remaining idle this week. Struthers, suffering from an 18 to 0 defeat in their Niles game last week, will take a week off before meeting the powerful Youngstown East team coached by Dick Barrett, brother of Salem's coach. The Wellsville Bengals are also resting this week and will tackle Rochester next week in another home clash.

The brink of Niagara Falls is receding at the rate of two and a half feet a year.

Sets Sprint Record

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—A new world sprint record was claimed today by George Guida, former Villanova college track star who enters the Navy Tuesday.

Clocked by three recognized A.A.U. officials, Guida ran 250 yards in 24.6 seconds, a tenth of a second under the recognized world mark set by Loren Murchison in 1924, in a handicap race at Upper Darby High school yesterday.

"Monk" Simons Dies

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—Claude (Monk) Simons, 56, Tulane university athletic official and beloved by a generation of Tulane football followers, died unexpectedly last night of a heart attack.

Father of Claude "Little Monk" Simons, Tulane's head football coach, "Big Monk" had not been active as trainer during the past two years because of his health.

ROBERTSON ALSO SELECTS NAVY TO TOP PENNSYLVANIA

Other Favorites Include Purdue, Michigan and Ohio State

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Now that the Navy and Marines have completed their job of tearing apart several of the nation's best, we can't say we weren't forwarned in making the following football selections:

Notre Dame-Army — even with Angelo Bertelli and ex-Irish star and the possibility Doug Kenna will play for the Cadets how can one go against a team that hasn't tallied less than 33 points a game and held six opponents to a combined score of 31 points? Notre Dame.

Navy-Penn—Tempted to take out the well-worn penny. But, on second thought, we'll take Navy.

Purdue-Minnesota — Even with Tony Butkovich in "boot" camp, the Boilermakers should have no trouble taking the Gophers.

San Diego Naval Station-Southern Calif.—The Trojans should come through.

Indiana-Michigan—Michigan but by no such score as it might have been if Bill Daley had remained at Ann Arbor.

Northwestern - Wisconsin — The Wildcats still have Otto Graham. That's enough to beat the Badgers.

Aggies Over Methodists

Southern Methodist-Texas Aggies—No argument. Aggies.

Del Monte pre-flight-U.C.L.A.—Del Monte.

Duke-N. C. State — The Blue Devils to beat State.

North Carolina-South Carolina—The tar heels in a romp.

Kansas-Oklahoma—Can't see the Jayhawkers stopping the Sooners.

Camp Grant-Great Lakes — The sailors have too many guns.

Arkansas A. & M.—Southwestern (La)—Southwestern.

Brown-Yale—I'll take Brown.

Columbia-Dartmouth — This isn't the week for Columbia to chalk up its first victory.

Illinois-Iowa—The Illini.

Missouri - Iowa State — The Cyclones' home-coming will be a success—Thanks to the Navy.

Okla. A. & M.-Tulsa—Tulsa.

Penn State-Cornell—Cornell.

Villanova-Princeton — Princeton should win.

San Francisco-California — California.

Looking Over the Others

Romping through the remainder of the schedule: Rice over Arkansas, Bainbridge Navy over Curtis Bay, Southwestern (Tex) over Bryan Air Field, Clemson over Davidson, Harvard over Camp Edwards, Miami over Jacksonville Naval Attc., Maryland over Virginia, Camp LeJeune over Norfolk Marine Base, Ft. Benning 300th infantry over Daniel Field, Nebraska over Kansas State, Holy Cross over Temple, Texas Tech over Texas Christian, North Carolina pre-flight over Wake Forest, West Virginia over Lehigh, Rutgers over Lafayette, Colorado over Utah, Georgia over Presbyterian (Friday) and, on Sunday, Iowa pre-flight over Marquette, St. Marys pre-flight over Alameda Naval Air Station and March Field over Ponoma.

On All-Star Team

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Three midwest basketball stars—Otto Graham of Northwestern, Bob Faught of Notre Dame and Johnny Kotz of Wisconsin—today were added to the 1943 college All-Star squad which will meet the Washington, D. C., Bears, national pro champions, in Chicago stadium Dec. 3.

The All-Stars will be coached by "Dutch" Lonborg of Northwestern and Doug Mills of Illinois.

Mount Union Will Drop Basketball This Season

ALLIANCE, Nov. 5 — Mt. Union college, short on male students, has decided to abandon intercollegiate basketball, at least for the coming season.

Bellaire Coach Quits

BELLAIRE, Nov. 5.—John (Butch) Niemic, for the past six years head football coach of Bellaire High school, resigned today because of ill health. James A. Dixon, assistant coach, will take over the grid team.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Now that the hockey season is under way, it might be a good idea for Twitchy Dick Porter, the old baseball player who now is business manager of the Curtis Bay, Md., coast guard "cutters" to enter a challenge for the Stanley cup without delay... The National hockey league bosses, who control the playoffs for the "world championship" trophy, have a habit of turning aside ambitions teams with the explanation that their challenges come too late .....They'd have to think up a new excuse at this time to avoid meeting the Coast guardsmen.

Branch Rickey definitely put the finger on Dixie Walker as the "one player" Leo Durocher didn't like when the brain called a special press conference yesterday to announce that Dixie had signed three months ahead of the usual time .....And if that wasn't enough, Branch remarked that Dixie "spoke in high praise of Leo as a former manager." Brigham Young and Oklahoma Aggies will be the first basketball visitors to the Garden this winter, arriving early in December Oklahoma U. is due late in the season..... Defenseman Ott Heller of the Rangers, exempt from military service in Canada because he's over 31 and married, has been called by his New York draft board.

Sergeants Jim and Jack McCullough, identical twins who played the two guard positions on the Penn freshman team, are playing different positions in the Army Air Force's touch football league at Miami Beach, Fla. Jim is a back and Jack an end, but they get together on occasional touchdown plays...... When Bull Tuero, Chunky 152-pound Fort Sheridan, Ill., guard was playing against Patterson Field, O., recently, he remarked "Those two guys I'm playing against are mad at me because I block too hard." Teammates looked up and saw that one of the two guys was a mere 266-pounder.

School Band Will Play At Liverpool

In spite of transportation difficulties, the Salem High school band will perform at the half of the Salem-East Liverpool battle tonight at Patterson field.

Townspeople have volunteered to transport the group to the game, which is the only out-of-town trip the musicians have managed this season.

Director Brautigam has planned another special show for the Salem and Liverpool fans. One of the features expected tonight is a twirling routine, intricate and difficult, by the five drum majorettes who regularly grace the front ranks of the organization.

Because of the difficulty involved it will be impossible for the "black light" show to be transported to Liverpool. However, Salem fans will be able to see the ultra-violet performance once more this season at the Salem-Lisbon game next week at Reilly field.

Montreal is the largest city in Canada and the largest inland port in the world.

Mauriello, Savold Will Clash Tonight

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—There has not been a steer roped or a broncho "busted" in Madison Square garden the past few days since the rodeo left, so tonight Tami Mauriello and Lee Savold do a little "cow-punching" on each other's noggin for 10 rounds or less by way of stirring up some action.

Now, Tami and Lee are a couple of old cowhands from the Bronx, New York, and Pattehson, N. J., respectively.

Lee is going to have to "git along" tonight quite a bit better than he did a year ago, when he had his last shot at Tami, because on that occasion, after dumping the uptown thumper on the floor, Lee dropped out of gas and droppped a decision.

This time, as a result, Tami's a 5 to 9 favorite to make that first one stick. This corner, however, like Lee.

Savold once weighed a mere 250, before slicing himself down to a workable 190. And Tami, laying off for several months early this year, blossomed out to a round 217. He's down to a mere 190 or so now, since a string of five victories in recent weeks. Savold has had a dozen fights this year, winning 11.

Promoter Mike Jacobs is gleefully looking for a 14,000 crowd and a $50,000 house.

Sports Official Dies

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 5.—Funeral services will be held Monday in packed Memorial church at Lehigh university for Walter R. Okeson, 68, chairman of the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association, who died yesterday.

Okeson was vice president and treasurer of Lehigh, where he starred on the football teams of 1893-95 and later coached. He also coached at Hobart college and for many years was a leading gridiron official.

Ohio State-Pittsburgh Scrap Tops State Football Slate

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5.—Five games are on the schedule for Ohio's collegiate football warriors this weekend.

Ohio's Buckeyes, badly battered and nosed out of a victory last week by a last-32-seconds pass that gave Indiana a 20-14 decision, meet Pittsburgh's milk-fed Panthers at Pittsburgh.

Both Ohio State and Pittsburgh have had losing seasons, although the Panthers did run roughshod over their smoky city rival, Carnegie Tech, 45-6, last weekend.

Pittsburgh uses an unorthodox "T". Linesmen shift into the backfield, tackles grab passes, halfbacks become ends.

Paul Brown will make some shifts for this game. Guards George Neff and Bill Hackett will not be in the starting lineup because of injuries. Halfback Ernie Parks also has a shoulder injury and may not start.

The only Ohio conference game Saturday brings together Case and Baldwin Wallace at Berea. Case lost to Rochester (N. Y.) last weekend 39-9 while Baldwin Wallace was taking the measure of Xavier 53-6.

Bowling Green last week whitewashed Alma (Mich.) 24-0, and Saturday meets Miami, which had a week of rest.

In the one other game, Ohio Wesleyan, loser in six of seven starts this year, goes to Wooster which beat Patterson field last week 21 Otterbein was scheduled to go to Wayne, Mich., but abandoned football this week because of a player shortage.
